A collaboration between the EFF and ToS;DR

TOSBack.org is Under Construction

TOSBack is a collaboration between the EFF, the Internet Society, and ToS;DR. Every day, we check the Terms and Policies of many online services to see if any of them have changed. The project is currently in beta as we are working on some improvements to ensure greater reliability and coverage. For now, please double check any results with the website operator before relying on them for important legal or journalistic purposes. More crawl data (including the full html pages) is available at tosback.eff.org (same warning applies).

	Ownership	What happens with the content you generate on the service?	The content and the data you generate on services online is usually subject to copyright law. When your data are collected by services, they can be considered personal data. It means that it is your content, your data : you can decide.	category			Delete Edit
	Anonymity and Tracking	Are you being spied on?	The terms sometimes describe the level of logging and the level of data collection and which kinds of data the service is processing. Anonymity or the right to use a pseudonym can be very important for freedom of expression (e.g. for people exercising a certain profession, or people living in authoritarian regimes).	category			Delete Edit
	Business Transfers	Is your data a business asset?	When you give your data to a company, you need to keep in mind that this company can get acquired by another company, with different policies. What happens in that case?	topic			Delete Edit
	User Involvement in Changing Terms	Are changes proposed as a request for feedback, or imposed unilaterally as a take-it-or-leave-it deal?	The terms are a contract between two parties, and it should not be changed unilaterally without consultation of the other party. Services should listen to what their users say and care about, and give them a vote in each substantial change.	topic			Delete Edit
